Oxford Development Corp. Shows Plans For Headquarters on Golden Triangle

by Virginia Beauchamp

Promises for a new corporate good neighbor in the Golden Triangle section of Greenbelt brought forth an optimistic response from the city council at their regular meeting on May 21. Earlier in the evening, however, the same council members had looked with disfavor on what they characterized as a series of broken promises by another occupant of that rapidly developing area — Capitol Cadillac.

Representing the new purchasers of a 3-acre parcel in the southwest section of the tract, Oxford Development Corporation, was Roger J. Baker, Vice President and Development Manager for New Ventures. A national concern—eighth largest development construction company in the United States—Oxford specializes in condominiums, luxury apartment developments, and retirement care communities. A major development in this vicinity, Shenandoah Crossing, is a 640-unit complex in Fairfax, Va. which was built by Oxford. Others have been constructed in North Carolina, Florida, and Indiana, to name a few.

The Greenbelt tract, however, would be used for corporate headquarters for the Development and Construction wing—to replace a facility that the company has already outgrown in Landover. Corporate financial offices are located in Bethesda. What attracted Oxford to Greenbelt, Baker said, was particularly the view across the road into Greenbelt Park. He commented that company officials first viewed the site on a suggestion by county councilman and former Greenbelt mayor Richard Castaldi.

Engineering studies of the site must still be made, but Baker said the company is planning a four-story structure, with access from Walker Drive. Parking will be provided primarily with an underground facility beneath the building. A courtyard and intensive landscaping are also envisioned. When first opened, the facility will house about 125 employees, Baker said, but eventually 200 employees will work there.

This tract, which fronts on Greenbelt Road between Kenilworth Avenue and Walker Drive and adjacent to the latter, was reserved for himself by Kenneth Michael, original purchaser of the Golden Triangle, when the rest of the acreage was sold to the Prudential Company. According to mayor Gil Weidenfeld, Prudential had also hoped to acquire this parcel but were "delighted" that a company with Oxford's prestige would be their neighbor. "This is good testimony," Weidenfeld said.

Matters of Concern

Council's ever-present concern with traffic congestion was met by Baker's familiarity with plans for reconstruction of the Kenilworth-Greenbelt Road interchange. A sizable corner of the Golden Triangle property will be taken by the State Highway Administration for construction of an exit ramp, he noted. For this reason, Oxford's engineering studies must be coordinated with those for the highway construction. Baker expressed his interest in expediting the road work.

Also to improve traffic control, he noted, Oxford had revised Michael's original plan to provide access directly on Greenbelt Road. The Walker Drive entrance — particularly with a traffic light installed — would be preferable, Baker said.

City manager Jim Giese also noted the storm water management requirements for the property, which contains a settling pond to filter out sedimentation. Baker confirmed that erosion control is a major concern in the company's development plans.

On the recommendation of the city staff, council passed a mo-

City Celebrates Greenbelt Day

by Michael Budzinski

This weekend marks the celebration of the 47th anniversary of Greenbelt's charter. Athletic events, musical entertainment and special exhibits highlight activities planned for this year's celebration. The festivities conclude on Sunday, designated as "Greenbelt Day," with a commemoration by Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and the city council at Roosevelt Center Mall. (See calendar of events on p. 12.)

"Each year it's getting bigger and better," said recreation director Hank Irving. "We're getting more involved," he added.

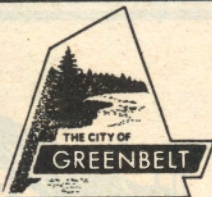

Community involvement and interaction are primarily promoted by the weekend's activities. Among activities scheduled is a pictorial and historical display presented Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Senior Citizen's Morrison Lounge in the Youth Center. Also scheduled is a strawberry festival sponsored by the staff and residents at the Greenbelt Nursing Center.

Several recreational activities from baseball to swimming, are offered throughout the weekend.

Tournaments will be held for table tennis, disc golf, softball and pitch and putt golf at various sites around the city. Three running events will be held at Attick Park beginning Saturday at 9 a.m.

The Hill City Jazz Band will perform at the Garden Terrace of the Green Ridge House on Saturday at 7 p.m. Admission is free and lemonade will be served. The Greenbelt Concert Band will perform Sunday under the direction of John DelHomme following the mayor's and city council's commemoration.

Transfer of Co-op Store Slated for Sunday, June 3

by Jim Cassels

If all goes according to plan, ownership of the Co-op Supermarket and Pharmacy will be transferred to the new Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative, Inc. on Sunday, June 3. The store would be closed that day in order to take inventory, and would be open on Monday, June 4 at 9 a.m. under the new owners.

A "The Co-op Is Saved" celebration will be held a couple of weeks later, in order to allow time for the staff and Co-op members to develop an attractive, appealing "Event."

Membership cards in the new Co-op will be at the membership table in the store from Monday on. Members are asked to pick up theirs before they shop, so they can give their new Co-op number to the clerk at the checkout counter.

Members are needed to serve at the membership table in the store. Anyone who can volunteer at least two hours of time, please call Mike Burchick at 474-6587.

The Board of Directors of the new Co-op still meets every Friday evening at 8 in the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Board Room. All members of the new Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative are invited to attend.

Greenbelt's Third City Manager Charles T. McDonald Dies at 89

by Sandra Barnes

Greenbelt mourns the death of Charles T. McDonald, the city's third city manager, who died Thursday, May 24, of a stroke. McDonald was 89. City flags are at half mast in honor of McDonald's passing. Services were held on Tuesday, May 29, at St. Hugh's Catholic Church with burial at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

McDonald served as city manager from 1948 until his retirement in 1962. He was the only man known to have lived and worked in all three "green" towns built by the federal government in the mid-1930s as part of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal administration. He served for five years as the first maintenance engineer and later housing manager of Greenhills, Ohio, and as assistant in planning for expansion at Greendale, Wisconsin, Greenbelt's two sister cities.

In a letter to his widow, Anne, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld stated, "During the fourteen years that he managed the affairs of the city, he participated in and guided many of the events that shaped the course of Greenbelt in the direction it has achieved today. He was, as well, a distinguished and honored citizen of the community."

Affectionately known as "Mr. Mac" by many of his friends and co-workers, McDonald worked with eight city councils. He was also very active in the International City Management Association and the Maryland Municipal League. He served on numerous committees for these two organizations and, on his retirement in 1962, earned the distinction of having attended every annual meeting of the Municipal League since 1948. He was also active in the American Legion and the Knights of Columbus.

McDonald was born and raised in Cincinnati, Ohio. He studied civil engineering and was graduated from Xavier University. He served with the Army in Europe during World War I. As a registered architect and engineer, he was an administrator of Civilian Conservation Corps camps during the 1930s.

McDonald strongly believed in the concept of planned communities and often noted with pride the fact that the Greenbelt towns were mentioned in most books that discuss community planning.

Following his retirement in 1962, McDonald served as a management consultant to several local governments and as a member of the Prince Georges County Housing Authority.

In addition to his wife, Anna, of Greenbelt, McDonald is survived by four sons, Thomas of Silver Spring; Gerald, of Chevy Chase; Paul, of Davidsonville; and Matthew, of Upper Marlboro; a daughter, Mary Anne Papale, of Pittsburgh; a brother, John, of Cincinnati; two sisters, Catherine Manley, of Cincinnati, and Anne Castellini of Jacksonville, Florida, and 16 grandchildren.

Expression of sympathy may be made in the form of donations to St. Hugh's Catholic Church or to the American Heart Fund.

Building Topped Out

Coakley & Williams Construction Division has topped out Maryland Trade Center II, second building of three to be located in Maryland Trade Center Park office/hotel complex. Coakley & Williams Construction Division is building the 12-story, 172,000 square foot tower. Already 25% pre-leased, the building was started in December. It will open in September 1984.

THANKS

To the Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to the City Council, the City Manager, and those employees responsible for the improvements that have been made at the Lake Park.

Always an attractive place to hike, bike, picnic, read, sun, etc., the City is making it even more enjoyable to Greenbelters. What a great way to spend tax money.

"Even More Special"

To the Editor:

A small, but significant error occurred in last week's article,
 "GHI Members Approve Proposal for Partnership with Co-op Bank."

That article identified Ellen Hanyok as a member of GHI. In fact, she is not one of our members and that fact makes her service to our members even more special.

Ellen, who is a registered nurse, has faithfully come to GHI every month for the last five years. She has volunteered her time in order to provide free blood pressure testing.

GHI feels honored to be the beneficiary of her good works.

GCI Annual Meeting

Greenbelt Cooperative, Inc., will hold its annual meeting at the Pentagon City Quality Inn on Saturday, June 9, beginning at 10 a.m. The meetings are free, but there is a charge for the luncheon which is served at noon.
 To reserve a place, write or call the Membership Department of GCI in Savage, Md.

Besides workshops and a luncheon speech by the Chief Executive Officer of the Cooperative League of the USA, the meeting will include reports from Board and Management and the election of three members to the Board of Directors.

GCI members of record on April 11 are entitled to vote in the membership meeting and election, including those who are transferring their membership and capital to the new Co-op.
 John Gaudie, Director of Education and Membership for GCI told the News Review that those members eligible to vote should have received their ballots in last month's Cooperator. "Transfer of the capital accounts to the new Co-op was delayed on purpose, Gauchi said, "We didn't want to disenfranchise the Greenbelt voters."

New Computer Software Store Caters to the Deaf

by Eric Englemann

A new business in this area, now advertising in the News Review, lays claim to being one-of-a-kind. Meet the manager and the owner:

Myrna Orleck and Phil Aiello have different backgrounds. Myrna has a degree in communications from Gallaudet College, and Phil in chemistry from the same. Phil began a mail-order computer-related business, which grew into a small business in Gaithersburg and which has now moved to College Park. Myrna now manages his store on Branchville Road near the corner of Greenbelt Road and Rhode Island Ave.

"Software 'n Things is," says Myrna, "The only software specialty store in Prince Georges County." "Software," says Phil, "will be the thing." He adds that the store also sells plenty of accessories.

Both Phil and Myrna are deaf. This adds a few other firsts to their business. Theirs is, to their knowledge, the only software specialty store in the U.S. owned and run by deaf people. They offer classes taught in sign language and have a Telecommunication Device for the Deaf (TDD)

City Asks Senior Citizens To Fill Out Questionnaire

The City of Greenbelt has prepared a questionnaire to obtain general information from Greenbelt Senior Citizens on their lifestyle in areas such as health, transportation, age and income and to identify what they see as service.

"We sit down with deaf people and give them an hour of individual instruction," says Myrna. "We can answer all their questions instead of sending them out of the store confused." But not all their customers are deaf, of course.

The personal computer has created new options in education—especially for the deaf. "Educational software is really growing because it's now consistent with most schools' needs," they explain. They point to the Electronic University—an accredited system available to Apple II computers. Myrna comments, "A deaf person used to have a tough time getting a bachelor's degree . . . Now a deaf person can get involved in continuing education through a computer. About one fourth of the deaf people I know have or are getting their doctorate. All of them are using computers."

their needs and problems.

Responses to the questionnaire will provide the City Council and staff with information on the needs or problems presently being experienced by these residents. It is very important that everyone in Greenbelt age 60 or older complete a questionnaire. Questionnaire forms were distributed at Golden Age Club meetings and to all Green Ridge

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, At the First Memorial Day in 1868, the Proclamation issued by General John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, called for the observance of this day "with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor his departed comrades"; and

WHEREAS, Since that first day, which was "designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country", Americans of that war, and unfortunately, subsequent wars, have observed Memorial Day throughout this nation and at battlefields overseas by gathering at cemeteries and memorials to honor and remember the sacrifice of those who gave their lives; and

WHEREAS, On this 30th day of May, 1984, we gather again in our community to honor and pay tribute to the men and women who served our nation and who gave their lives — sacrificing the fulfillment of their dreams, so that fellow Americans of their own and succeeding generations might live in freedom and seek the fulfillment of their hopes and aspirations; and

WHEREAS, This Memorial Day 1984 is filled with special poignancy for all of us and, even though we do not forget the war dead of earlier wars, it is and should be especially dedicated to our fallen comrades of the Viet Nam War; and

WHEREAS, The return, the lying in state, and the entombment of the Unknown Soldier of the Viet Nam War has vividly brought before our eyes and into our hearts the significant sacrifices made by our servicemen in this war, which divided Americans during one of the most difficult times in our nation's history; and

WHEREAS, By bringing home this Unknown Soldier and bestowing upon him the honor deserving all who died during the Viet Nam War, we are recognizing that their sacrifice and their service, as well as the service of all Viet Nam veterans, was not in vain; we are recognizing that they served this nation as well as any soldier ever did; and that their willingness to answer the call to duty, despite controversy and dissent, deserves our respect and the deep gratitude of this nation; and

WHEREAS, As we gather at the Greenbelt war memorial, a few days short of the dedication of the memorial stones on which will be inscribed the names of the young men of our community who gave their lives in the Korean and Viet Nam Wars, it is well to remember the words of a poem written by John McCrae for the fallen of World War I, words which speak to us today, as they did then, substituting but one word:

In silent fields the Poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly —
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow;
Loved and were loved. And now we lie
In silent fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch. It's yours to hold it high.
If you break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep — though Poppies grow
In silent fields.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Gil Weidenfeld, Mayor of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland, by authority vested in me by the Council and the citizens of Greenbelt, issue this proclamation on the occasion of

to pay tribute and to honor all war dead of our nation's wars; to pledge our assurance that the entombment of the Unknown Soldier of the Viet Nam War shall keep alive in our minds and hearts the sacrifices made by the men and women of that war; and to pray that there shall never be the need to bury another Unknown Soldier in that consecrated ground.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have the City of Greenbelt, Maryland, to be hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Greenbelt, Maryland, to be affixed this 30th day of May, 1984.

City Council to Vote on Budget Monday After Hearing Public Comments May 15

by Leta Mach

Slightly more than a dozen people, most of them city staff, attended the May 15 City Council public hearing on the city's proposed budget for 1984-85. "One of the most important working tools used by the Council, City Manager, and department heads for establishing the level of service to the citizens of Greenbelt" (as noted in the budget document), the budget with any council revisions, is scheduled for passage at a special meeting of council on June 4.

City Manager James K. Giese opened the public hearing with an overview of his proposed budget. Total proposed expenditures for the general fund are $4,461,800, up 11.7% from this year. Estimated revenues are $4,277,800, up 11.7% from this year. The $184,000 difference will come from this year's unappropriated surplus.

Not a hold-the-line budget, the proposal provides for increases in city service. Notable proposed expenditures are 1) six full-time and one part-time additional employees, 2) $57,000 for the limited operation of North End Center and $125,000 for repairs and improvements to the closed school building, 3) $17,200 to operate a city bus, 4) an allocation of $.07 on the property tax rate for the reserve for capital improvements, 5) $80,000 for word and data processing equipment, 6) $14,000 for public information programming on Cable TV (offset by estimated franchise fees), 7) $5,000 for improvements to animal pens used by the animal wardens, 8) $5,000 for repair of the spillway at the Greenbelt Lake dam, 9) street rehab projects using Community Development Block Grants, and 10) purchase of the PEPCO substation property using, in part, a Program Open Space grant.

While a tax increase of $.08 is proposed to fund the budget, citizens will actually see a net decrease of $.31 in their property tax rate. The reduction derives from the effect of the new county tax differential for municipalities. To recognize the public works and police services provided by the city, the county will tax Greenbelters $.39 less than residents of unincorporated areas. At the same time, the former grant to the city in recognition of these services has been eliminated. This accounts for the proposed increase to make up for the lost grant.

In a manner familiar from previous years, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld reviewed each budget account page by page, giving citizens a systematic way to comment upon the budget. He garnered no questions on the city council, administrative, registration and election, or finance and administrative services budgets under the general government. But Eunice Coxon, speaking as an individual, asked that the legal counsel budget be further broken down. The budget ($19,900) provides for a retainer plus estimated hourly fees for the city attorney.

The municipal building budget provides for a heat pump for the basement, which is improperly heated and has moisture problems. In the community promotions budget, a relatively new line item sets aside $7,000 for the city's upcoming 50th anniversary.

Public Safety Budget

The public safety budget received considerable discussion. Calling for the addition of two uniformed officers and one communications specialist, the budget provision is two officers fewer than requested by the police department and seven officers fewer than requested by the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP). Officer Doug Sappington reminded council of the FOP's request for extra officers, vehicles and radios, as well as contingency funds for a canine corps. The FOP has also asked for a night vision camera and a four-wheel drive vehicle. Councilman Richard Pilski made it known that he would like overtime broken down into specific reasons on the next budget. Although Pilski favored the camera, he did not feel the city was ready for a canine corps. Sappington responded that the department had already borrowed county dogs for tracking lost children and searching buildings with open doors.

The animal control budget is up to $19,900 from an estimated expenditure of $10,800 for this year. Coxon noted, "There has been an improvement. I see a lot more leashes than I've seen before."

Public Works

The public works budget provides for the maintenance of city property. Two requests for extra equipment were received in this budget. One citizen expressed interest in a street sweeper and Pilski stated that a backhoe was needed this year rather than next.

The social services budget provides for the operation of Greenbelt CARES Youth Services Bureau. CARES works closely with other social agencies and receives 75% of approved program expenses from the state. In response to the only question about this budget, CARES Director Carol Leventhal replied that 80% of the people using the service last year lived in the city.

Recreation

The Recreation Department budget calls for one additional full-time recreation coordinator and one part-time office assistant, one full-time employee fewer than the department requested. Director Hank Irving's somewhat convoluted explanation of the benefits of the additional position and the way the position would be offset by decreased part-time salaries lightened the evening. He explained, "The full-time person would be split between two centers (Springhill Lake and the Youth Center)." It prompted Councilman Ed Putens to say, "You've got it. Don't say anything else." Councilman Thomas White added, "In spite of your explanation, I still understand it." Councilman Toni Bram repeated her original support of the request.

One new group, the Babe Ruth League, has asked for a contribution of $1,000 under the city's support of other organizations. This would be a one-time request for start-up money for uniforms for the new group. Joe Wilkinson and Coxon congratulated the Boys and Girls Club for becoming self-supporting. That group as well as Springhill Lake Baseball did not request any money this year.

Under the parks budget, Keith Chernikoff commented that this was the year to fix the tennis courts before it was too late. Money has been designated in the capital improvements budget for repairs.

Under miscellaneous accounts, City Manager James K. Giese noted that no money has been budgeted to improve Hanover Parkway. The combined Boards of Greenbriar have requested the widening of Hanover Parkway to Mandan Road. In reserves $50,000 is specified to carry out any recommendations which might be proposed in a study of the operation of the police department.

As required by law, the meeting also served as public hearing for the revenue sharing fund budget. A $3,500 item in the budget is a portable radar unit. Pilski expressed reservations about this item, feeling that the way radar was used was a waste of manpower. "Let's not confuse policy and use of radar with the need for radar," countered Putens.

Reviewing the evening, Chernikoff gave his opinion that it was a "Christmas tree budget." He suggested that for starters the $50,000 to implement the police be cut.

Weidenfeld ended the evening by thanking the staff and citizens who appeared. Earlier Pilski had suggested that cable TV filming of the event would be educational as far as showing who turned up for the city's annual budget hearing.

Msgr. O'Donnell Inducted Into OCS Hall of Fame

Monsignor William F. O'Donnell, former pastor of St. Hugh's Church, was inducted into the OCS Hall of Fame in a formal ceremony on February 10 at Fort Benning, Georgia. Major General James J. Lindsay, Commander of the Ft. Benning Infantry School presided over the induction.

The Infantry Officers' Candidate School Hall of Fame was established in January 1958 to provide incentive and motivation for newly commissioned second lieutenants and other potential candidates. The first OCS class graduated from Ft. Benning in 1941. From approximately 130,000 officers commissioned through the OCS program, only 1,043 have been received into the OCS Hall of Fame. While most of the inductees have been selected from officers who have made a career of service in the U.S. Army, approximately 150 have been selected from graduates who did not, including Casper Weinberger, Secretary of Defense, and William F. Buckley, writer and speaker. Recommended by General E. C. Meyer, then Chief of Staff of the Army, Msgr. O'Donnell became the first Catholic priest to be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

While in the service O'Donnell received the Silver Star, Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, and Combat Infantryman Badge.

After graduating from OCS on May 20, 1943, O'Donnell was assigned to the 87th Infantry Division. Released from active duty in 1945, he entered the Foreign Service, serving as American vice-consul in Hamburg, Germany. Upon returning home, he started night classes at Georgetown Law School. O'Donnell next joined the Department of Justice as a trial attorney.

In 1962, he was ordained a Catholic priest. He served 13 years as editor of the Catholic Standard and 11 years as pastor of St. Hugh's. Currently he is pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Bethesda.

Host Families Sought For Foreign Students

Host families are being sought for 25 high school students from foreign countries for the school year 1984-85 in a program sponsored by American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE). The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in late June 1985. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Families interested in hosting a Spanish student age 15 through 17 during five summer weeks 1984 (end of June through July) are also being sought. The students in this program will not attend school.

Host families with small children are welcome to participate in both programs. Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students age 15 through 18 who would like to spend a high school year or a five week summer stay with a host family in another country.

Families interested in this program should contact Henry Shine 4444 Connecticut Ave NW, Washington D.C. 20008 (phone 966-1075) immediately. Letters should contain the prospective host family's telephone number.

GHI NOTES

The next rehab information meeting will be held Monday, June 4 from 5-6:30 p.m. in the GHI Board Room.

GHI will sponsor free blood pressure testing on Wednesday, June 6 from 2-4 p.m.

Pursuant to a recent Board decision, the Maintenance Department will install bullet vents in all brick attics. Generally, this work will be done in conjunction with rehab work.

GHI staff members said farewell to Architectural and Technical Services Coordinator John Vaughn last week. He has taken a position as superintendent with Capital Homes.

Used Oil Collection Centers

Residents are reminded that it is illegal to dispose of used automotive oil at any place other than an approved collection center. Disposing oil on the ground or in the storm drain causes water pollution to the Chesapeake Bay. Also the collected oil is recycled and used as a fuel or lubricant which reduces our dependence on imported oil. In 1983 Marylanders returned enough oil to heat 11,200 homes for an entire winter, according to the Maryland Dept. of Natural Resources. Used oil can be taken to the Greenbelt Road Shell, the Beltway Plaza Shell, the Co-op Service Station, the Greenbelt Exxon Servicecenter and the Greenbelt Public Works Department near the lake.

tion to request a site plan review because the building planned by the original owner, Kenneth Michael, called for only 62,000 square feet of space, as opposed to the projected 90,000 square feet in the Oxford proposal.

A public hearing on a resolution concerning economic development revenue bonds (CR-SS) for Oxford for a maximum principal amount of $10,000,000 has been scheduled before County Council on Tuesday, June 5 at 1:30 p.m.

Capitol Cadillac

Council's somewhat jaundiced outlook concerning approval of a revised site plan for the Capitol Cadillac property reflected negative language in an Advisory Planning Board report on the request. Noting that this was the third revision the APB had reviewed, the Board questioned the value of its work on the basis that "past history indicated that . . . the full plan would not be implemented." The APB called for "a good faith effort on the part of the property owner" to complete previously promised landscaping before city approval should be given.

The current request by the automobile dealership calls for construction of 20 additional service bays on the rear of the present building, bringing the total number of bays to 92. The plan also calls for the paving of the northeast corner of the property, adjacent to the Beltway, to provide additional parking.

"Parking" seemed to be a dirty word to the council, who complained that employee parking had regularly spilled over on to Capitol Drive and Walker Drive. "Is it the policy of Capitol Cadillac," asked councilman Tom White, "that employees are not allowed to park on the property?"

He was speaking to Paul Serex, Director of Planning for Ben Dyer Associates, who was presenting the plan. Serex appeared before council to discuss landscaping then underway — though not yet completed by the time of the council meeting, as APB had recommended. In the plans is a double row of white pines, which will separate the Capitol Cadillac property from the adjacent restaurant. Spaces in the border of trees screening the Beltway will also be filled with pines, Serex said. Evergreen euonymus, called for in the APB report, will be planted along the southern boundary of the property's northeast corner. Other trees would be planted in islands interspersed within the parking area.

But council, in view of the failure of the company to complete earlier site plans, inquired into what means the county had at its disposal to enforce compliance. Perhaps a performance bond could be required, Giese suggested. Weidenfeld was concerned that 20 additional service bays would generate 20 to 30 more employee vehicles.

Councilman Ed Putens wondered if parking meters on Capitol Drive or yellow curbs might act as means by which the city could require the company to supply more on-site parking.

On a motion by White, as amended by council member Toni Bram, council voted to defer approval of all modifications to the site plan until the owner meets all previous commitments. Giese was also directed.

county's Park and Planning Commission to request that they not take action while the city is negotiating with the company con-

'Anne Frank' Well Done

by Katherine Keene

The Diary of Anne Frank has ended its run at the Utopia Theater; that is too bad, because the production, directed by Judy Holland, was very well done indeed. It was much better than the book on which it was based, and that is interesting, because the original diary was also very moving, but not to me nearly so moving as was this production.

The story is a simple one. Two Jewish families hide in a sort of annex behind one of the tall row houses in Amsterdam that face one of the canals. Dutch friends feed them, and help them survive. They stay hidden two years, during air raids and food shortages and while the children of the two families grow into adolescence. They rejoice when they hear that the Invasion has started. They quarrel with each other as the tension of their long hiding increases. Finally the Nazis come. The only survivor, the father of Anne Frank, returns to Amsterdam and the house where they had been hidden. We learn that all the others — the Van Daan family, his wife, his two daughters, the elderly dentist who had also been in the shelter — died in the concentration camps before they could be rescued.

Of course I had read the Diary, and I had visited the annex when I had been in Amsterdam, but even despite this none of it had any reality for me until I saw the play, and I think that this says as much for the performance as one can say. Except for the bookcase opening into the hiding place instead of into the building that concealed it, the set looked the way it should. On the small stage we saw the cramped quarters, the boy Peter's closet that he shared with his cat, Anne's sleeping space shared with the elderly man, the Van Daans in their loft. They were all on the stage all the time, just as in the secret annex the eight persons were always with each other. They had no privacy except in the toilet. Their tension increased, and so did ours as we watched the slowly building monotony and fear that were their lives.

None of the actors gave a weak performance. There was not one of them to constantly remind me that I was only watching a play. I find that I have a tendency to re-live those years, probably because at the time they were filled with emotion, and I know that when I left the theatre I felt that I had somehow broadened my own experience of that most difficult time.

I should add that the lighting, in particular, was less obtrusive than in some previous performances. The shifts of position and of time done by darkening the stage while the audience could dimly see the actors moving about — something that might have easily turned the whole play into a ludicrous episode — was very well done and did not interfere with the creation of another world that was going on on the stage.

Gestures, body movements, the sets, lighting, the use of the stage are meaningless if it is impossible to hear the actors. All of them projected their voices across the footlights. There were no lost lines. This was particularly noticeable of Angela Schreiber (Anne), whose speeches came across not only clearly but also convincingly.

It should be added that Lori concerning its fulfillment of plans agreed to in previous site plan requests.

Hopson Paul signed the entire play in the beautiful language of the deaf. Somehow this added much to the beauty of the performance.

Those who saw The Diary of Anne Frank were fortunate.

CFG Board Opposes Tidler Tract Rezoning

The membership of Citizens for Greenbelt, Inc. has in the past, expressed concern about the increasing congestion on Greenbelt Road, especially near the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, said Eunice Coxon, president. In view of the additional traffic that construction near Greenbelt Road will create, the Executive Board of Citizens for Greenbelt opposes the re-zoning of the Tidler property from R-R to R-T proposed in Case A-9495.

Coxon announced the reappointment of the following Standing Executive Board Committee Chairmen at the May 22 Executive Board meeting:

Barry Schlesinger — zoning, Jerry Conway — health and safety, Irene Hensel — transportation, and Ruth Kastner — membership.

Tennis News

by Jim Harbaugh

The Harold Weiner Memorial Tennis Tournament was held April 28-29. Zelda Weiner and her son, Kevin, were on hand to present the tournament winners their trophies. Daughter Karen Weiner was also in attendance. The G.T.A. officials and players were honored and appreciative of the Weiner family's participation.

Perennial winner of the men's "A" division, George Tompkins, started out winning but had to withdraw for personal reasons. Newcomer to G.T.A. but not to tennis was Gary Kittay, who several years ago played as either number one or two on the University of Maryland tennis teams. Gary made off with the trophy after enduring a strong rally by upstart Greg Harrelson, 6-1, 7-5. The doubles were also exciting as all the teams seemed strong and well balanced. But emerging through the smoke were again Gary Kittay and his youthful partner, 13 year old Todd Byrom. They won over a very determined team of Peter Distler and Mike Shepard, 6-3, David Moran as Liaison with the 50th Anniversary of Greenbelt Committee; Keith Chernikoff, Eunice E. Coxon and Charles Hagelgans — Prince Georges Civic Federation Delegates; Jerry Conway, Labor Day Festival Committee Representative.

Class for Parents

Prince Georges Community College is offering a course on "Writing Skills for Our Elementary School Children" at Greenbelt Library, from June 5 through June 19. There is a fee for the course which will meet on three consecutive Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Designed for parents, the course will focus on a home-writing course for children. Sign up by calling 322-0875.

Inge Harbaugh marched through the women's "A" division not losing a set. She defeated the seemingly awesome Carol Smith, who until she played the final with Inge had not lost a game either.

Another baseliner, Ron Amatucci, displayed a formidable top-spin forehand and a deceptive backhand to prevail over a tough Jim Marshall. Ron also showed his dominance of the men's "B" division by not losing a set in any of his tournament matches.

Finally the mixed doubles allowed us to welcome back Judy Safchick to the G.T.A. fold. She played quite successfully with partner Kevin Lee until the finals. There they ran into a very good tennis duo of Julie Ward and Don Fleming who outlasted them, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

GTA Schedule

The next tournament will be held on the Independence Day holidays beginning June 30.

AN OPEN LETTER TO CITIZENS OF GREENBELT RABIES PREVENTION DURING RABIES CRISIS

As you may have read in the newspapers, there have been an increasing number of raccoons found infected with rabies throughout the metropolitan area and as close as College Park and the Agricultural Research Center. One cat also was found infected. It is a matter of concern to us all. The County Health Department describes the situation as of crisis proportion. While we cannot prevent or control the outbreak of rabies among raccoons, there are measures which can be taken to prevent its spread to people and pets:

1. ELIMINATE SOURCES OF FOOD TO RACCOONS. Place refuse in covered containers with lids that cannot be pried off. This is a city ordinance requirement, and refuse containers will be inspected this summer throughout the city to determine their compliance with regulations.
2. KEEP PETS CONFINED IN YOUR YARD OR ON A LEASH. as required by the city animal control ordinance. Dogs and cats are prohibited from running at large. There is a maximum fine of $25 and an impoundment fee of $10 for pets running at large.
3. HAVE YOUR PET VACCINATED. The County offers rabies inoculation clinics from time to time. Shots may be obtained from any veterinarian. For more information, call the Prince George's Division of Zoonosis Control at 386-0241.
4. REPORT TO THE POLICE IMMEDIATELY ANY PERSON BITTEN BY AN ANIMAL, 474-5454, and if possible, confine or identify the animal.
5. NOTIFY THE POLICE IMMEDIATELY OF ANY ANIMAL ACTING STRANGELY, 474-5454. Do not attempt to catch the animal or otherwise come in contact with it.
6. WARN YOUR CHILDREN not to try to capture or play with wild animals and, most particularly, raccoons.
7. REPORT TO THE POLICE ANIMALS RUNNING AT LARGE, 474-7200.

Your cooperation and assistance in eliminating food supplies for raccoons and in keeping pets confined or otherwise under control will help to assure that no one in Greenbelt is infected by this deadly disease.

"Greenbelt Day" Recalls Founding

by Peter Durantine

Greenbelt Day, June 1, marks the 47th anniversary of the adoption of the town charter, an action taken by the Maryland State Legislature before a single resident had moved in. Perhaps this is the first municipality in history to have a government before it had people. Here is the story.

When Greenbelt was granted municipal status by action of the legislature, the city thereby became the first in the state's history to operate with a managerial (city manager/council) type of government. The concept of managerial government established that the town would operate on a business rather than on a political level.

At the time Greenbelt was being built, it had become one of the decade's most debated federal projects. Criticism abounded in Congress with many legislators feeling that the federal government was taking too active a role in the individual lives of citizens. But President Franklin D. Roosevelt, initiator of the 'greenbelt towns' project, following the advice of Rexford Tugwell, one of his trusted advisors, refuted this criticism. He explained that the town would be an example of what people and private corporations could accomplish together.

The charter itself, written before the new residents moved into Greenbelt, went into effect when the town received municipality status on June 1, 1937. It provided for a non-partisan council of five equal members, elected at large every odd-numbered year. Any citizen registered to vote was eligible for candidacy, with nomination by petition signed by no less than 3 percent and no more than 5 percent of the registered electorate.

Of the five members elected, one had to be selected as mayor and one as mayor pro tem. Selections were to be made by the council with the office of mayor being primarily ceremonial. The council itself held the greatest authority. The duties of the council were to establish governmental policy, legislate authority, maintain contact with public opinion, and oversee administrative duties through the town manager.

In November 1937 the first town council was established. Of the twelve candidates nominated, five were elected. From among this group came the first mayor of Greenbelt, Louis Bessemer, a United States public health clerk. At the same time Roy S. Braden was officially declared town manager, volunteering to work for $1 a year until the town could acquire a treasury large enough to pay his salary of $500 a year, which the charter stipulated. (Under another hat, Braden was community manager for the Farm Security Administration (FSA), which owned and operated the greentown project after the liquidation of the Resettlement Administration in September 1937. FSA paid Braden's salary. In effect, Braden was both town manager and community manager at the same time.)

An article from The Cooperator, the town newspaper and predecessor of the News Review, tells about that first election.

"Greenbelt's first election for councilmen was different from anything seen or heard in the annals of Maryland politics. It's on the record now.

"Think of twelve candidates in a political campaign where you hear no name calling, no false charges, no trumped-up issues; where there is no twaddle and ballyhoo, no vague promises, and no red herrings! Each candidate merely promised to study his job, do his level best for all, and made it plain that nonpartisan politics meant exactly that. We are glad Greenbelt politics can ride through a campaign without inflated egotism, or injury to any person's character."

Ten years after Greenbelt received municipal status, President Harry S. Truman sent a letter to the town praising its development as a community and congratulating the citizens on their tenth anniversary.

Two years later, on June 1, 1949, the charter amendment was passed which changed Greenbelt from a town to a city. Now, 35 years later, the city of Greenbelt, its population more than twice what it was in 1949 — is very different from the way it looked in 1937 and 1949. But one thing has not changed and that is the city's democratic and political process laid down by the charter.

Greenbelt's 6-year-old team tied 1-1 in its April 28 games against New Carrollton 2 with Scott Lubey scoring the only Greenbelt goal. Meredith Criswell and Shawn Wilson have been playing better each week.

Greenbelt 1 (8-year-olds) beat New Carrollton 3 by a 1-0 score on a penalty kick by Mike Davis. Mike Cook and rookie Philip Larkin played well throughout the game. The other 8-year-old team won 4-0 against New Carrollton in its greatest victory of its season. Steven Klem and Jamie Brignoli each scored one goal and Nathan Jones scored twice while playing center forward. Donald Law also played an excellent game.

Greenbelt's 10-year-olds beat Beltsville 3-1 with Chris Davis particularly excellent in defense. Jay Hilbert, Alex Collmer and Jonathan Schachter each scored to help in the victory.

The city's 12-year-old team also had a big win that Saturday when it beat New Carrollton 2 by 4-0. Colin Joseph scored twice, David Krieger and Joel Cahalan once. This was Joel's first score of the season. Greg Reisher made a spectacular play when goalie Pat Heaney was out of the goal area and Greg covered the goal, keeping New Carrollton scoreless.

'Coppelia' Opens June 7

The Central Maryland Ballet Theatre — in cooperation with the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center — will present the traditional full-length "Coppelia" (music by Delibes and choreography by Saint-Leon) at the Utopia June 7-9 at 7:30 p.m. and June 10 at 6 p.m.

Coppelia is a love story with a fantasy in which a doll and other toys come to life. This presentation is for the entire family.

The company, founded by Nancy K. Wire, performed the Nutcracker last Christmas at the Utopia. Two performances were sold out.

Wire, a former student of the Washington School of Ballet and a graduate of the University of Maryland, is again serving as Artistic Director for the company.

Guest performers Ernesto Fernandez (who performed in Nutcracker with CMBT last season) and Blanca E. Cortes will be featured in the roles of Franz and Swanhilde.

Fernandez was born in New York, N.Y. He studied ballet with Amelia Gilmore and with the Baltimore Ballet.

Cortes was born in San Juan, Puerto Rico where she began her studies in classical ballet. In 1976-78 she studied in Baltimore at the Peabody Conservatory and Maryland Ballet School.

Cortes is the director, principal dancer and choreographer of the Ballets Contemporaneo de Puerto Rico, which has performed in New York and Baltimore.

Heartbeat Soccer

The adult co-ed soccer team made up of Boys and Girls Club coaches and friends and parents of youth soccer players is being sponsored by the Heartbeat Figure Salon in Beltway Plaza. The team just won its second game of the season by a 2-1 score. Isidore Lynch, coach of one of the Greenbelt 8-year-old teams, scored both goals with help from Chris Collins and others. Jay Jenkins controlled the game at midfield with style and skill. Parents of Jay Joseph, Kevin Wheatley, Nancy Tolzman and Alan Law, all players on the youth teams, contributed much to the victory.

Based on Information
Released by the Greenbelt
Police Department

On May 21 officers of the Greenbelt Police Department served a search warrant at an apartment on Parkway Rd. As a result, five persons were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Three of those arrested were city residents.

An attempted breaking and entering took place in the 7900 block of Lakecrest Drive on May 22 when a suspect attempted to break in by prying a door open with a crowbar. The suspect was described as a black male, 6'10", 17-19 years of age. He was last seen leaving the area in a blue 1979 Datsun.

On May 24 at about 1 p.m. officers, responding to the report of a case of indecent exposure, found a naked man walking along Research Road. The man was taken to Prince Georges County General Hospital for psychiatric evaluation.

On May 22 a resident of the 100 block of Lakeside Drive reported seeing a raccoon at about 8 p.m. Officers could not find the animal when they arrived. The department wishes to remind all citizens to report any nocturnal animal which appears in daylight hours or any animal which acts strangely, and to avoid contact with any wild animal.

Breaking and entering incidents occurred on May 18 in an office on Greenway Center Drive and on Westway. In the latter case, entry was apparently gained through a bedroom window or by the use of a key. Another breaking and entering occurred in the 44 Court of Ridge Road on May 21. Some personal property was stolen. On May 22, in the afternoon, a breaking and entering occurred on Parkway Road. A TV set was taken.

According to a police department spokesman, seven traffic accidents occurred over the holiday weekend, with four persons arrested for driving while intoxicated. This total was described as "fairly low" for a holiday weekend.
